A bomb was fired at the state superintendent by Chas. H. Hemingway, superintendent of schools in Rock county, in his address on "Needs of Legislation in Rural Schools." His remarks had a direct bearing on the fight for the state superintendent in which A. W. Wood of Neenah is a recognized candidate against C. P. Cary, the present superintendent whose term will expire next July.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—The attention of the Roman Catholic world will be centered next week on the Eternal City, where brilliant and elaborate ceremonies will be held in celebration of the Pope's jubilee, the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. From all parts of the world, eminent prelates of the church, including a liberal representation from America, have journeyed to Rome to take part in the jubilee observances.

In the United States circuit court at Richmond the injunction suit instituted by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company against the Interstate Commerce commission will be argued. In New York, Sylvester G. Williams, the special examiner appointed in the case, will begin the taking of testimony in the anti-merger suit brought by the government for the purpose of dissolving the Harriman railroad system.

UNVEIL MONUMENT TO MEMORY OF DEPARTED

Fifteen Thousand Revolutionary Soldiers Who Died on Prison Hulks Have Shaft to Their Memory.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Nov. 14.—With military pomp and an impressive ceremony the "Prison Ship Martyrs' monument" was dedicated today in Brooklyn. President-elect Taft made a special trip from Hot Springs, Va., to deliver the oration of the day. The exercises began at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

TAFT DELIVERED THE MAIN ADDRESS OF THE OCCASION

The Prison Ship Martyrs' Monument Dedicated in Brooklyn With Impressive Ceremonies.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Nov. 14.—With seeming crowds, and in the presence of a distinguished company the Prison Ship Martyrs' Monument in Fort Greene Park, Brooklyn, was dedicated today. William H. Taft, the next president of the United States, delivered the principal address of the day. Other prominent participants included Gen. Luke E. Wright, secretary of war, Governor Hughes, General Horatio C. King, Mayor McClellan and S. V. White, president of the monument association.

It was a gala day in Brooklyn. The Stars and Stripes floated from all the public buildings and from hundreds of private residences. Almost every house in the immediate neighborhood of Fort Greene Park was decorated with flags and bunting. The speakers' rostrum was handsomely decorated with shields, large brass eagles and the coats of arms of the thirteen original states.

The dedication of the monument was made the occasion of a splendid military pageant, 10,000 soldiers of the United States Army, National Guard of the State of New York, and sailors and marines from the navy yard participating in the demonstration. Along the line of parade thousands of spectators thronged the sidewalks and loudly cheered Mr. Taft and the other notables who were to take part in the exercises.

The speakers paid glowing tribute to the memory of the 12,000 American patriots who lost their lives in prison ships anchored in Wallabout Bay in the Revolutionary War, and in memory of whose martyrdom the monument was erected. The monument itself is a remarkable structure. It is one of the largest dated columns in the country, finely proportioned and of imposing dimensions. The column, designed by the late Stanford White, is of Newport white granite, 150 feet high, and rises to a height of 250 feet above the street level. The shaft is eighteen feet in diameter at the base and tapers to twelve feet at the top. The Doric capital measures twenty feet across. The shaft is the largest ever cast. It is twelve feet in diameter and weighs eight tons. The total cost of the monument exceeded $400,000. Of this amount Congress appropriated $100,000 and the remainder came from the

FOOTBALL SCORES EAGERLY WATCHED BY ENTHUSIASTS

Yale-Princeton, Cornell-Chicago, Pennsylvania-Michigan the Three Big Contests.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Nov. 14.—Battling good gridiron contests are promised in every section of the country today for the critics of the game to witness and ponder over. The University of Pennsylvania eleven has journeyed to Ann Arbor to tackle the University of Michigan. In this section all eyes are centered on Princeton, where Yale meets the Tigers. Harvard will keep one eye on the afternoon's contest with the husky Dartmouth bunch, while the other will be on the game between the Elks and Tigers.

West Point should have little trouble in disposing of the Washington and Jefferson eleven. But the Navy may find it a harder task to come out of the contest with Penn State victorious. Dickinson and Bucknell clash for supremacy, and it will probably be a game well worth witnessing.

In the middle West, Cornell meets Chicago at Chicago, which will be the real test of the Ithaca's strength. Illinois and Iowa meet at Urbana, Minnesota, Wisconsin and several of the other big institutions have an open date. On the Pacific coast California and Leland Stanford come together for their annual battle.

In the South there will be several games of importance. Alabama and Georgia meet at Birmingham, Clemson and Tennessee at Knoxville, Virginia and Georgetown at Washington, Sewanee and Georgia Tech at Atlanta, and North Carolina and South Carolina at Chapel Hill. ## LIVED IN STATE FOR SIXTY-THREE YEARS

Senator Isaac Stephenson Landed in Milwaukee Nov. 15, 1845— Lived Here Ever Since.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Marinette, Wis., Nov. 14.—"Sixty-three years ago tomorrow morning I came to Wisconsin and have lived here ever since with the exception of four years which I spent at Milwaukee, Mich. near Escanaba," said U. S. Senator Isaac Stephenson. "Great changes have been made in the Badger state during that time, and today it is one of the most substantial, trusty, wealthy and best governed states in the Union."

"I wandered into Milwaukee Wednesday, November 15, 1845, at the foot of Huron street on the old north pier. I was a passenger on the steamer Empiro and with Jefferson Sinclair, the Napoleon lumberman of Maine, of the entire world for that matter, who came here from Bangor, Maine, we went to Racine for two months and then returned to Milwaukee. My first work was to help break 400 acres of land near Janesville. Later on I went north and commenced my work as a lumberman. If I were to tell of the hardship, suffering and privations that were endured by the pioneers, the luxury that attends the people on every side today, it would appear like the Tale of the Arabian Knight, but I suppose if the people today had to live and work as we did over half a century ago they would do just as well as we did."

"I never felt better in my life than I do today and I am going to stay in good old Wisconsin many more years, the Lord permitting."

INTERESTING POINT RAISED BY LAWYERS

Question of Furnishing Free Service to City Offices by Telephone Company.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Nov. 14.—An interesting legal point has been raised by the city of Superior in a suit against the state railroad commission resulting from the commission's order that the Douglas County Telephone company cease to supply telephone service free of charge to the city offices. The city is complainant in the suit and the railroad commission and telephone company are parties defendant. The city granted the company a franchise, among the terms and conditions of which was an obligation on the part of the company to furnish the city telephone service without charge. Now free service is contrary to the public utilities law, and the city makes the claim that the franchise constituted a valid contract, the obligations of which the new statute would impair if enforced. "This city claims would be unconstitutional, and an injunction is sought restraining the commission from enforcing its order. The writ is returnable in the circuit court for Duane county next Wednesday, Nov. 18."

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE HUMANE SOCIETY

Was Held Last Evening—Mrs. John Peterson Elected President—Saw the Governor Regarding "Bull-Dog Joe."

Wilson Lane, the retiring president, was in the chair and Miss Melrose Chittenden acted as secretary at the annual meeting of the Janesville Humane society which was held at the Holmstrom drug store last evening.

Mrs. John Peterson, in the course of a report, stated that acting on information furnished by neighbors to the effect that an individual known as "Bull-Dog Joe" was keeping a kennel of fighting canines at the edge of the city and these animals were being whipped and otherwise ill-treated, she had complained to Chief of Police Appleby. The latter had not given her much satisfaction and among other things had said that it had not yet been determined whether he was chief of police or not. So she and Miss Chittenden had gone to Madison and secured an audience with Governor Davidson. The latter had listened patiently to what they had to say and had caused his secretary to make a note of all the facts as they stated them. He stated that he would give the society his support and see to it that the laws were enforced, intimating that it was the duty of Mayor Heddlow to act in the matter and that he could be removed from office if he failed in his duty. The society decided to hold a rummage sale to raise funds to pay the salary of a special officer to be appointed by the Governor who will devote his entire attention to the enforcement of laws protecting dumb animals. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. John Peterson; Vice President, Mayor Heddlow; First ward,
Attorney William Smith; Second ward,
P. J. Caldwell; Third ward, Dr. J. W.
St. John; Fourth ward, and Atty. Wilson Lane; Fifth ward; Treasurer, Richard Valentine; Secretary, Miss Chittenden; Directors—John M. Whit-head, Frank H. Jackson, William W.
Watt, W. P. Richardson, William Ham-

for the presidency of the Wisconsin
State Teachers' Association by John Kelly of Joplin, Mr. Hemingway received ninety votes less than his opponent. This election was a most spiteful one and up to the final count it was thought that Mr. Hemingway had won. The total vote cast was 1,620 of which Mr. Kelly received 805 and Mr. Hemingway 715. Mr. Hemingway was among the speakers at this morning's session of the association having for his subject, Needed Legislation for Rural Schools.

MARK W. HARRINGTON FOUND IN AN ASYLUM

Former Chief of Government Weather Bureau Discovered After Being Missing Ten Years.

New York, Nov. 14.—Prof. Mark W. Harrington, former chief of the United States weather bureau, who mysteriously dropped out of sight nearly ten years ago, has been found, a hopelessly mental wreck, in the New Jersey asylum for the insane at Morris Plains. He has been an inmate of the asylum since more than a year ago when he was found wandering aimlessly about the streets of Trenton. Such is his condition that he has been unable to tell the asylum officials anything about himself, and it was not until Friday that his identity was established. Then the wife of the former weather bureau chief visited the asylum and identified the man as her missing husband. Mrs. Harrington, who lives in this city, said Friday that although her husband has changed greatly in appearance since he left home ten years ago, and did not recognize her when she visited him at the asylum, she is certain the man in the asylum is Prof. Harrington.

Prof. Harrington was found wandering about the streets of Trenton over a year ago and was unable to give his name or any details about himself, and as he carried no papers that would reveal his identity he was sent to Morris Plains. Had it not been for the chance reading of an article in a western paper by his son, Raymond Harrington, describing a patient in the asylum, the man's identity might never have been learned.

The son's suspicions were aroused, and he communicated with his mother who now lives in this city. She visited Morris Plains and there, it was said, identified the inmate known as "John Doe No. 8," as her husband. He did not recognize her. Mrs. Harrington said that since the time her husband had left their home some ten years ago she had heard from him twice, shortly after he left, one letter coming from Raleigh, S. C., and another postmarked Washington, D. C. Prof. Harrington was a graduate of the University of Michigan, where he afterward held the chair of astronomy. President Harrison appointed him chief of the weather bureau in 1891, from which office he was removed in 1895 by President Cleveland. Later Prof. Harrington became president of the University of Washington at Seattle.

RHEUMATIC FOLKS.

Are You Sure Your Kidneys Are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to uric acid in the blood. But the duty of the kidneys is to remove all uric acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive. Don't daily with "uric acid" solvents. You might go on till doomsday with them, but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove uric acid, but cure the kidneys and then all danger from uric acid is ended. Here is Janesville testimony to prove it.

Mrs. E. J. O'Brien, living at 260 West Third St., Janesville, Wis., says: "It is with pleasure that I give my name to be published in recommendation of so valuable and reliable a remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills. I have used them and know they do all that is claimed for them. I suffered a great deal during the past ten years from rheumatism and kidney disorder. Since I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills I am feeling much better. I am never without the remedy which I prepared from the People's Drug Co. I hope others who suffer from any form of kidney trouble will try Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBourn, Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Albany, N. Y.—Rarely have four greater names ever been associated with the senatorship than are now on the tongues of New York politicians in connection with the successor to Thomas Collier Platt. Senator Platt's term expires March 4. He is an old man. Infirmary has robbed him of all vigor. Domestic infidelity has harassed him for many months. He is not a candidate for reelection, and probably could not be elected if he wanted to be.

Thus all discussion of the next New York senator eliminates him from the question.

This is no suggestion, however, that there is not magnificent timber from which the choice is to be made. First and foremost in the list stands Elihu Root, secretary of state in the cabinet of President Roosevelt. If Mr. Root does not remain as President Taft's premier he will undoubtedly have the backing of the administration for the New York senatorship, and at all events he is today practically the leading candidate among the prophets.

Hon. Whitelaw Reid, ambassador to the court of St. James, is another probable aspirant. Mr. Reid has represented us in England for several years with distinguished success. He was at one time a candidate for vice president on the Republican ticket, with Benjamin Harrison. He is a big man. When it is suggested he would give up the court of St. James for the United States senate, some suggestion is given of the prominence and importance which public men attach to a place in the upper house of congress.

Ex-Gov. Frank Black is another would-be senator. Black is a lawyer and an orator of great power. He is the man who nominated Roosevelt for president in the Chicago convention of 1904. He is a big man and as a candidate will loom large on the horizon.

Congressman J. S. Fassett of Elmira also wants the place. He was one of those whom the New York delegation to the Chicago convention last summer considered along with "Sunny" Jim Shorman as a possible New York candidate for vice president.

In addition, ex-Lieut. Gov. Timothy Woodruff, chairman of the Republican state committee, is grooming for the job.

It is evident that there will be no dearth of good material, and that the probable difficulty will come from New York's embarrassment of riches.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

Ambrose Bierce, writing for the Cosmopolitan, offers this new thought on reform. It is so novel and out of the ordinary that the sentiment contained will doubtless be criticised, more than commended. He says:

"Let us for a moment suppose this country's reformers to have achieved their unholy purpose—their purposes, rather, for they are the leaves of the forest, and not the tree. We have, then, a country in which are no poverty, no contention, no tyranny nor oppression, no peril to life or limb, no disease—and so forth. How delightful!—What a good and happy people! Alas, no!

"With poverty have vanished benevolence, providence and the foresight which, born of the fear of individual want, stands guard about thousand gates to defend the general good. The charitable impulse is dead in every breast, and gratitude, atrophied by disease, has no longer a place among human sentiments and emotions. With no more fighting among ourselves we have lost the power of resentment and resistance; a carload of Mexicans or a shipful of Japanese can invade our folk's paradise and enslave us, as the Spaniards overran Peru and the British subdued India. (Hailers of the dawn of the new era) Well, I trust provide that it dawn everywhere at once or here last of all.)

"Having no oppression to resist and no perils to apprehend, we no longer need the courage to defy, nor the fortitude to endure. Heretofore is a fading memory and magnificently a dream of the past; for not only are the virtues known by contrast with the vices, they spring from the same seed, grow in the same soil, ripen in the same sunshine, and perish in the same frost. A fine race of molluscoides we should be without our sins and sufferings! In a world without evils there would be no supreme evil—existence.

"We need not fear any such condition. Progress is infected with the germs of corruption; on the grave of the civilization of today will squat the barbarism of tomorrow, with a glory in his bosom that will transfigure him the day after."

"The alternation is one that we can neither hasten nor retard, for our success baffles us. If, for example, we could abolish war, disease, and famine, the race would multiply to the point of 'standing room only'—a condition prophesying war, disease, and famine. Wherefore the wisest prayer is this: 'O Lord, make thy servant strong to fight and impotent to prevent!'"

The people have been so busy with reforms, and unceasingly have been such a pleasant pastime, during the past few years, that the other side of the question, brought out by Mr. Bierce, has been entirely overlooked. Another side, which has received but little attention of late, is the good side of life, for goodness is in the ascendant.

This planet, which humanity is permitted to occupy, may not be heaven, and it may be a long way from ideal, but it is a mighty substantial footstool, nevertheless, and the portion of it known as the American continent is a dwelling place which satisfies the average mortal in normal condition through years of activity and down to the verge of feebleness and dependency. "Angels in the skies" with golden harps and a life of ease may appeal to the immortal nature, but the busy work of everyday life, with all its possibilities and great opportunities, absorb attention, and so the universal creed of humanity is based in the belief that this is the workshop where destinies are wrought out, and where faithful stewardship is recognized and rewarded.

The fear of death has ceased to be an incentive for better living, for the fact is actually recognized that across the pathway of life is the threshold which opens upon the life beyond, so real and yet so intangible that the eye of faith alone attempts to penetrate its mysteries.

Modern thought has changed the theology of many creeds, and from the pulpits of the land today come inspiring messages on "how to live," rather than "prepare for death."

The enthusiasm as well as the fanaticism which characterized the old theology, has been transferred to the new, and as the field is broader it enlists the attention of all sorts of teachers and would-be leaders of thought. This is what Mr. Bierce had in mind when he wrote an "What would happen if reformers reformed."

The busiest class of people are the people who sacrifice what little business they have of their own in efforts to regulate other people's affairs. There was a time when this sort of censorship was confined to the church, which has always had connected with it a vanguard of zealous exponents who assume the right to be conscience and judgment on all questions. People who are so straight that they lean backward. Too pure for this world but not quite pure enough for the next.

But in the great moral uplift which the nation has experienced of late, this small class of zealots has been lost in the shuffle. Legislatures are elected to reform everything in sight, from the length of a bed sheet in Texas, to insurance laws in Wisconsin, so hostile that companies retire from the field while the universal panacea for railroads is a two-cent fare.

The atmosphere had become so pregnant with reform that the average citizen assumed to know better how to run a railroad than the men in control of these great enterprises, and as for the Standard Oil company, and other great corporations, they should be put out of business for the good of the country.

Almost every man had a grievance, and he nursed it until it developed a theory. Nearly half the voters of the country were carried away with the notion that a guarantee bank law was the panacea for all financial ills and once established would result in a bank account for every individual.

People who were getting on so well that a grievance was hard to find, picked up the tariff, and hurled on that single string until, all over the land "revelation of the tariff" became the popular chant, and the theory is generally entertained that when revision is established worry and trouble will vanish like the dew.

That some practices need reforming, is not a question of doubt, and the fact that a higher standard of business morality has been inaugurated is gratifying, but an epidemic is never desirable and always dangerous.

The vicious laws which have been passed, and the class hatred engendered, are scars which will continue to annoy for years to come. With the partial return of business confidence, it is a good time to cultivate confidence in humanity for the world is better than it seems.

Criminals and wickedness are heralded and exploited, with virtue and righteousness trading along unnoticed. The great risk and life of humanity respect the right because it is right. Encouragement, more than censure and criticism, is needed.

MISS BROWN'S ADVERTISEMENT.

Margaret Brown, a Chicago stenographer, wanted a position.

There were other stenographers in Chicago who also wanted positions. Miss Brown's friends suggested advertising. She looked over the long columns of "Situations Wanted" printed in the newspapers. She read scores of advertisements modeled after the following:

Situation Wanted.—Young girl of twenty-three, five years' experience, desires position as stenographer; trustworthy and rapid; references exchanged. Box 212.

Miss Brown shook her head. To go into the newspapers with that sort of an advertisement would be like going into a lottery. Doubtless many of those girls were as capable as she.

How could she catch the eye and arrest the attention of the manager who was looking for help?

After writhing her forehead many times Miss Brown finally worked out this unique ad:

Situation Wanted.—A brown haired girl of the name of Brown would like a position as stenographer with a firm named Brown, although others would be considered. Address X 612.

The result?

A great lunch of letters came to the newspaper office in answer to X 612. From these the girl took her choice. The next day she read Miss Brown sat at her desk taking dictation. She had found her job.

And the other girls were still advertising.

NO ALUM, NO LIME PHOSPHATES

In every one of fifty-two different brands of alum and alum-phosphate baking powders recently officially analyzed Sulphuric Acid was reported in large quantities, frequently greater than twenty-five per cent. of the whole weight of the baking powder!

Chemical tests show that a portion of the alum from alum baking powder remains as such and unaltered in the bread. Read the Label

DR. WAUFLE TELLS OF CITY'S HEALTH

Says New Chicago Ordinance Will Require Inspection for Tuberculosis of Cattle in This Section.

"No new cases of contagious disease have developed lately," said Health Officer G. C. Waufle when questioned this morning regarding the city's welfare. "But out of the twenty-five cases of scarlet fever which have existed here during the past two months, there have been five deaths— which is a very high percentage. Two patients were released from quarantine this morning—one at the Mohns home on Clark street and the other at Fred Stockberger's home on Oakland Ave. Louis Brumard's place on Eastern avenue, the Melcher home on Wall street, a residence on Half street and Benson Court, and a Forrest Gowers home on Conrad street, where there is a case of diphtheria, are still under quarantine. There was some complaint yesterday to the effect that neighbors were 'joked' allowed to enter the Brumard home on Eastern avenue but the police investigated and could not substantiate the allegations."

Fumigation is expensive.

Spending with the Dupree solidified formally, is rather expensive but we are using the system on the recommendation of the Columbus Memorial Laboratory, Deane Vaughn, of the University of Michigan, medical department, and many other eminent authorities, and it will pay in the end. It kills all the germs and spores. In two hours and can be handled much better in this form than in any other. Each fumigator is good for 1000 cubic feet and costs 35 cents. The city of Milwaukee has a contract for 500 of them a week. In that city and elsewhere all public buildings are fumigated twice a year and it ought to be done here in the case of the school houses. According to the state law, as set forth in the latest bulletin of the State Board of Health, the expense of establishing and maintaining quarantine as well as the expense of thoroughly disinfecting premises before quarantine is lifted, must be met by the municipality whose scarlet fever prevails.

Chicago's Ban on Milk.

The Chicago ordinance requiring inspection for tuberculosis of all cattle in every locality from which milk, butter, and ice cream are shipped to the metropolis, is going to compel some investigations hereabouts even if Janesville hasn't a milk ordinance. W. A. Evans, the head of the Chicago health department who was instrumental in having this ordinance passed, is the head man in the Columbus Memorial Laboratory and is recognized as the leading bacteriologist and pathologist in the west. He makes the positive declaration that tuberculosis can be detected from the milk and meat of infected cattle. The ordinance goes into effect on January 1.

HOME MADE BREAD

Home made bread is what we offer to the public. We use dry yeast in making our bread which makes it better. Our bread can be kept a week, yet we bake it fresh every day; by using dry yeast, bread will retain its moisture. It seems to have been the plan of all bakers to make bread, particularly light, and in order to get it very light, considerable "compressed" yeast is used. The general trouble being that baker's bread is too light and often tastes of yeast. Our bread has body to it. It is light, but not too light and never tastes of yeast.

We do not deliver bread and therefore it is not handled by anybody but the baker until it is wrapped up for you.

Did you ever stop to think how many hands the ordinary bread goes through before it reaches you and then, did you ever notice the condition of the hands which deliver it to you?

These are little advantages you get in buying our home made bread and we are sure you will like it. The best way for you to decide, however, is to try a loaf yourself. It is five cents a loaf.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Nov. 14, 1868.—The location of the Court House.—We understand that the Board of Supervisors have substantially agreed to locate the new Court House in the center of the park, opposite the street. It will front on Main street, with side entrances on both West street on both the east and west sides. We heartily commend the good judgment of the Board in this matter. From the location of the ground it was to be feared that the building would be located too near Main street to show off to good advantage or to allow sufficient room between it and Main street for a suitable park. It is not to be supposed that the grade of Court street and South First street is to be permanent as it now stands, but that both of them will be made under in due course of time. So far as we have heard any opinion expressed, it has been decidedly in favor of the proposed location.

Meteors.—A number of meteors were observed in the heavens, south-east of this city last night, about midnight. Upwards of seventy were reported at New York City. Possibly there may be a brilliant display of them tonight, as this is the time of their annual recurrence.

Bell Raised.—The bell for the Congregational church was raised to the tower of the new building this morning. Henceforth the public will hear the pleasant tones of this excellent bell.

Ole Bull.—The big diamond in the end of Ole Bull's violin was a present from the Duke of Devonshire, a deaf old gentleman for whose pleasure the violinist played half an hour with a string connecting the instrument and his hearer's teeth, whereby the latter heard the music.

The President's Message.—The President has commenced, already, certain portions of his annual message, but he will be unable to write up its most important features for several weeks owing to his desire to give a full history of the negotiations for the settlement of the Alabama claims, as well as discuss the financial question, even to a greater extent than he did last year.

Spain.—At a meeting held by various political clubs in Madrid, it was unanimously decided to accept a monarchial government not based on divine right, but a sovereignty of the people, expressed by universal suffrage.

Mysterious.—New York, November 13.—The Hunker Hill, Ill., Gazette states in substance that a barn attached to a place where a tavern has been kept for years, in the vicinity of that town, the remains of three human beings have been found buried beneath the barn floor, and that the skeletons of five other men supposed to have been murdered, have been discovered in the neighborhood of the same premises. The landowner is suspected of having been engaged in robbing and murdering for years. He has been arrested and is now imprisoned, awaiting trial, his having been refused.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.—Services are held in Phoenix block, West Milwaukee street, Sunday, 10:30 a. m.; Wednesday, 7:45 p. m. Sunday subject—"Mortals and Immortals." Reading room open daily except Sunday from 2 to 4 p. m. Howard chapel—Rev. J. H. Tippett will preach at 2:30; Sunday school at 3:30.

Congregational church—Robert C. Donson, minister. Morning service, 10:30; sermon by the pastor, subject—"Conformity and Life"; the church kindergarten will care for young children from 10:30 to 12; Bible school, 12 m.; Young People's meeting, 6:00 p. m.; A. E. Matheson, leader; evening service, 7:00 o'clock, sermon by the pastor on "What the West is Doing for the East—A Study of Some Actual Conditions in China and Japan."

Church of the United Brethren in Christ—Corner Milton and Prospect avenues, L. A. McIntyre, pastor. Bible school, 10 a. m.; preaching services at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m.; Junior meeting, 3 p. m.; Y. P. S. C. E. union, 6 p. m. The pastor will speak in the evening on "Commercial Life" as based on the teaching of Jesus. This sermon will be of special interest to businessmen. Mid-week service Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. All are welcome to these services.

First Baptist church—Joseph C. Hazen, pastor. Morning service at 10:30; subject—"A Reason for Doing Right," music by quartette; Sunday school at 12 noon; Young People's society, 6; evening service at 7 will be a sacred concert, song program elsewhere in this paper. Prayer meeting Thursday evening. All are invited.

Many Church Mission—106 South Jackson street. Sunday school at 2 p. m.; preaching at 7:45 p. m. Topic—"The Blessedness of Nearness to God." The following Wednesday and Friday evenings. Everybody welcome.

Children Taught to Save.—Children attending elementary schools in Devonshire, England, are to be taught the virtue of thrift. The use of the savings bank is to be explained to them and in every school in which a postoffice savings bank is not available the educational authorities recommend that a "penny" bank be established.

UP-TO-DATE FASHIONS

Hair ornaments include the coronet, the coronet-like bow and the little half-crown of roses or forget-me-nots manufactured out of ribbon.

Velvet in the lovely autumn leaf shades will be a very favorite fabric for smart afternoon gowns, as will also finely corded ottoman silk.

Fashion allows skirts to be plain, paneled or pleated, making only the point that the decoration shall run downward and not "round and round."

Styles are growing more simple in effect if not reality, and the salient part of the wardrobe for the coming season is the tailor-made.

Among narrow trimmings there are all sorts of braided designs in one-half and three-quarter-inch widths in gold or in blends of all colors or black.

Very dainty white wool batiste waists have a touch of color in hand-embroidered dots sprinkled over the fronts and silk-covered buttons of the same tone.

Nile green and a shade known as amberine or eggplant are used for some of the hats. These are wonderfully rich in tone. The two tones are very prominent.

Women are fascinated by the new ribbed silk-covered hats with their traceries of soutache upon the brims and sometimes upon the crowns, and with edgings of silk cord.

Among the many simple cloaks now worn there is none sweeter nor more becoming than the Shaker cloaks that appear in the candy colors so loved by brides and beauties.

The new pumps have a slender strap over the instep and a buckle, and this prevents it from slipping back and forth, which is the chief fault women have urged against pumps.

Large flat buttons are to be seen on the largest hats. They are made to appear as though fastening the wings or other trimming in place. The effect is very smart and novel.

One of the latest effects shown in newly imported gowns is secured by the use of matched scarfs added to the costume and draped down the back from the shoulder to the knees.

Among the millinery trimmings there are rich effects to be had in large clusters of two roses with foliage which come in the new American beauty, Amethyst and "dood" rhinades.

Soutache everything and you will be in fashion's good books. There are actually evening shoes made of velvet and satin with the most delicate traceries upon them in the narrowest of braids.

Invisible nets solve the problem of mussed hair for many. Naturally they must match perfectly and must not be too tightly adjusted. It is because they have been worn too tight that nets have gotten a bad name in culture arrangement.

The little fur or mousseline hat will be quite fashionable, the latter to be worn until the commencement of winter weather. Then we shall see

AT THE PLAY HOUSES

To witness only one performance given by Miss Grace Hayward during her annual week's engagement gives one no idea of the stupendous task this clever little woman has every season in preparing for her retail season. The organization and splendid performance of the company are quite exacting. First ten plays must be obtained, each different from the other and permitting of a change of parts running the gamut of human emotions; then the scenery must be prepared, and the costumes must be outlined and ordered and weeks of attention given to the proper supervising of the dressmakers and then comes the greatest task memorizing the typewritten lines and rehearsing and directing the production of the plays. Miss Hayward directs all her own pieces and this season has 411 typewritten pages to memorize. Some idea of the work entailed can be gained from these figures. Miss Hayward opens her annual engagement here at the Myers theatre on next Monday, presenting on the first night an eastern success, "For Home and Honor."

BONES AND RINGS ARE EXHIBITED IN COURTLampshire Trial Prosecution Tries to Prove Death of Mrs. Guinness and Children.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 14.—Evidence was introduced Friday by the prosecution in the Lampshire trial, tending to prove that bodies found in the ruins of the Guinness farmhouse were those of Mrs. Guinness and her three children, of whose murder Ray Lampshire is accused.

Although Judge Richter permitted the coroner's verdict to go before the jury and later informed the jurors that they should disregard the verdict as being proof of the death of Mrs. Guinness, the prosecution is getting before the jury the evidence contained in the report and upon which Coroner Mack based his conclusion and verdict that the adult female body was that of Mrs. Guinness and that the smaller bodies were those of her three children.

In order that no hardship might be occasioned the jurors by letting them spend two successive idle days and also in order to push the trial, it was decided to hold court Saturday.

The exhibits of the day included the rings taken from the fingers of Mrs. Guinness and the children, a piece of cloth found clutched in the hand of one of the children, three pieces of bone, identified by Coroner Mack, Sheriff Smutzler and Dr. Long, Wilcox and Gray, and photographs of the scenes of the burned house and the bodies. The bones consisted of a heel bone, a lower jaw, and seventh cervical vertebra. The physicians declared that they were human. Sheriff Smutzler testified that they were found in the ruins in the same spot as the bodies were discovered. The jaw bone was declared by the witnesses to be that of an adult.

Sheriff Smutzler on the witness stand, described in detail the positions in which the bodies were found in the ruins, said that underneath them was debris of considerable thickness, and swore to the removal of the rings from the fingers of the bodies. He testified to having known Mrs. Guinness when she was alive and stated that he had been in his office three or four times while he was sheriff. He recalled having noticed rings on her fingers and identified the rings offered in court as being identical with those he had seen on her fingers.

LIBERAL VICTORY EXPECTED.

Gen. Gomez Likely to Be Elected President of Cuba.

Havana, Nov. 14.—The polls for Cuba's national election opened at seven o'clock Saturday morning and will close at six in the evening. Friday night the indications were that the Liberal ticket headed by Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez and "Alfredo" Zayas for president and vice-president would be victorious.

There was seemingly marked depression in the confidence of the followers of Gen. Mario Menocal and Dr. Rafael Montoro, the candidates of the Conservatives, with an apparent corresponding feeling of assurance of victory by the Liberals.

Gen. Menocal in an interview Friday night declared that there was a probability that the Conservatives would carry the provinces of Pinar del Rio, Matanzas, Santa Clara and Camaguey, with a total of 49 electoral votes, but placed Oriente in the doubtful column. The Liberals claim all the provinces with the exception of Pinar del Rio and Matanzas.

PRIEST IS FOUND GUILTY.

Convicted of Complicity in Plot to Commit an Assault.

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 14.—A verdict of guilty of complicity in a plot to commit an assault was returned by a jury Friday against Rev. Father Francis Crociata, the Stellan priest, who has been on trial in the superior court here. Father Crociata was accused of having been connected with a plot which resulted in the death of Accorci to Santoro, a Stellan, who was beaten to death by fellow countrymen because of his alleged attentions to a young Stellan woman. Two men directly involved are serving prison sentences for their part in the affair. Sentenced in Father Crociata's case was do-forred.

Bomb Explodes in Taxicab.

New York, Nov. 14.—The explosion of what is supposed to have been a dynamite bomb in a taxicab in front of the Grand Central station on Forty-second street created excitement in the vicinity about midnight. The cab was wrecked, but so far no one is known to have been hurt. The machine was hired by a woman in front of a Broadway restaurant and who is supposed to have placed the bomb.

Gain Weds Miss Livingston.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Miss Catherine Livingston of Wauwatosa, Wis., who was arrested a week ago charged with stealing and begging, and Elmer E. Cain, a former member of the Wisconsin legislature, for whom support the young woman stole, were married Friday afternoon. As a wedding present Judge Dickler dismissed the charges of larceny against the bride.

Aaron A. Parker, Detroit, Dies.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14.—Aaron A. Parker, one of the incorporators of the White Star line of river excursion steamers of this city, and for a dozen years president of the line, died Friday night at his home here of valvular disease of the heart. He was born in Hamburg, Erie county, N. Y., 61 years ago.

DUTIES ON TOBACCO — SUIT BOTH PARTIESNo Change Wanted by Members of Committee—Growers Fear Phil-lipine Competition.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The present duties on tobacco seem to suit both the Republican and Democratic members of the house committee on ways and means, judging from developments at the hearing Friday. The Republicans favor the existing rates as affording protection to American growers and manufacturers, and the Democrats are satisfied not to have them reduced because they believe tobacco is a luxury which should produce revenue for the government.

Representatives of the tobacco growers of New England, Florida and Georgia opposed any change for higher or lower rates, contending that such action would disturb the conditions of the trade.

While M. L. Floyd, chairman of the tobacco board of trade of the Connecticut valley, was giving the committee information with regard to the various phases of the American tobacco industry, Representative Griggs of Georgia asked if the tobacco growers were afraid of free trade with the Philippine islands.

"They certainly are," was Mr. Floyd's reply. "Borneo and Sumatra, where the tobacco industry is in the hands of the Dutch, are so near the Philippines, that the Dutch tobacco growers would be able to take their goods to the Philippines, and raise tobacco with labor that costs but 18 cents per day, which would compete with our tobacco, when our labor costs from $1.50 to $2 a day.

"It would take our standing army to keep these same growers of Sumatra from smuggling tobacco into one or more of the 1,500 islands in the Philippine group," he added, "where they could pack it and ship it to this country free of duty."

BAD STATE FOR LOW RATES.

Railway Experts Say They Are Impracticable in Missouri.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 14.—Missouri's geographical position near the center of the United States and its relation to the great transcontinental railroads make low rates in the state impracticable, according to the opinions of railroad experts who testified in the Missouri rate cases Friday. Columbus Hale, vice-president and traffic manager of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, said that low freight and passenger rates in Missouri would disturb the fabric of rates in general force in the United States. The testimony of two other experts was practically the same.

Mr. Hale testified that it is not possible to lower the state rates in Missouri without seriously affecting the interstate business across the continent. He also believes that the great commercial centers, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, would suffer more than the railroads by a shake-up in the tariffs.

"PAUPER PADDED WITH MONEY."

Insane Woman at Peoria Has $5,000 in Her Clothing.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 14.—Upwards of $1,000 in cash and certificates of deposit and deeds amounting to $4,000 were found by asylum attendants at the Bartonville institution Friday, sewed in the clothing of Mrs. Mary McManis, an aged and supposedly poor woman. The woman was committed from this city Thursday and when she was taken to the county jail the officers failed to find the money.

The woman, for years, lived as a recluse and recently had made repeated threats to set fire to her humble home and burn the place and herself. The money was brought to Superintendent Zeller, who is making efforts to find some kin of the unfortunate woman.

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS.

Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers.

This story was very seriously, "Alto" has been very careless."

"Everybody is. What of it?"

"It is understood that she and Jack Rutledge have separated."

"He looked up quickly. 'Who told you that?'"

"A woman wrote me from Newport. And Alto is here and Jack Rutledge is in New York. Several people here—I have heard about it from several sources. I'm afraid it's true, Phil."

"They looked into each other's troubled eyes, and he said: 'If she has done this, it is the worst of two evils she has chosen. To live with him was bad enough, but this is the limit.'"

"I know it. She cannot afford to do such a thing again. Phil, what is the matter with her? She simply cannot be sane and do such a thing—can she?"

"I don't know," he said.

"Well, I do. She is not sane. She has made herself horribly conspicuous among commonplace people. She has been indiscreet to the outer edge of effrontery. Even that set won't stand it—especially as their men folk are quite crazy about her, and she leads a train of them about wherever she goes—the little fool!"

"And now, if it is true that there's going to be a separation, what on earth will become of her? I ask you, Phil, for I don't know. But men know what becomes eventually of women who slap the world across the face with over-ringed fingers."

"If there's any talk about it—if there's a newspaper talk—if there's a divorce, who will ask her for her house? Who will condone this thing? Who will tolerate it or her? Men, and men only, the odious sort that fawn on her now and follow her about half sneeringly. They'll tolerate it, but their wives won't, and the kind of women who will receive and tolerate her are not included in my personal experience. What a fool she has been! Good heavens, what a fool!"

"A trifle paler than usual, he said: 'There is no real harm in her. I know there is not.'"

"You are very generous, Phil."

"No, I am trying to be truthful. And I may have my mind on that score. I've looked nearer his sister and laid one hand on her where it lay across the hammock's edge."

"Nina, no woman could have done what she has done and continue to do what she does and be mentally sound. This, at least, is my conclusion."

"It has long been my conclusion," she said under her breath.

He stared at the floor out of gray eyes grown dull and hopeless.

"Phil," whispered his sister, "suppose—suppose—that happened to her father?"

"I know."

She said again: "It was slow at first, a brilliant eccentricity that gradually became something less pleasant. Oh, Phil, Phil!"

"It was softening of the brain," he said, "was it not?"

"Yes," he entertained a delusion of conspiracy against him, also a complete conviction of the mental instability of others. Yet at intervals he remained clever and witty and charming."

"And then?"

"Phil—he became violent at times."

"Yes, and the end?" he asked quietly.

"A little child again, quite happy and content, playing with toys, very gentle, very pitiable." The hot tears filled her eyes. "Oh, Phil!" she sobbed and hid her face on his shoulder.

Over her foot, faintly fragrant hair, he stared stupidly, lips apart, chin loose.

A little later Nina sat up in the hammock, faintly smiling the traces of tears. Selwyn was saying: "If this is so, that Rutledge man has got to stand by her. Where could she go if such trouble is to come upon her? To whom can she turn if not to him? He is responsible for her—doubtless so if her condition is to be that! By every law of mankind he is bound to stand by her now. By every law of decency and humanity he cannot desert her now. If she does these things—these indiscreet things, and if he knows she is not altogether mentally responsible, he cannot fail to stand by her! How can he, in God's name?"

"Phil," she said, "you speak like a man, but she has no man to stand loyally by her in the direct need a human soul may know. He is only a thing."

RECEIVES CALL FROM

A ROCKFORD CHURCH

Rev. Clyde McGee of Clinton Congregational Church May Go to Forest City.

Strong efforts will be made to keep the Rev. Clyde McGee in Clinton, Mr. McGee on Friday morning received a unanimous call from the First Congregational church of Rockford, Ill. He was not a candidate for this position and had only preached in the church once in the absence of their pastor and has not as yet decided to accept the call.

Rev. Clyde McGee, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan and Chicago, has been in Clinton for four years and is one of the strongest of the younger pastors of his denomination in the state. He has rethe West Side and narrowly missed hitting a child who was sitting on the floor in the head. The bullet struck the stove making a bad dent in it and then bounded off. The mother was upstairs at the time the bullet came through the window but on hearing the shot came down stairs and found that the bullet had missed the child's head by about two inches. The source from which the bullet came could not be discovered.

The football game between Wayland Academy and Beloit Academy this morning resulted in a victory for the Beloit team. The score was 12 to 6 and by defeating the Wayland team the Academy have secured the state championship amongst the academics. The game was called at nine o'clock at Keep field.

The Beloit high school was completed this morning and in a few days the shot came down stairs and found will be opened for inspection by the citizens. School will be commenced in the new building next month.
